Dear G A Stevens,

I am writing to let you know that your article "Piloting The Rocket of Radical Innovation", published in Research Technology Management, Vol 46 No 2 2003 has been selected as one of the top fifty articles in Emerald Management Reviews for 2004.

Emerald Management Reviews (formally Anbar) was established in 1961 and was the first management 'abstracting' database in the UK. Today EMR features the world's top 400 management publications and is still the only service of its kind to include independent reviews of each article rather than authors' own abstracts. These reviews are all written by subject experts and are also rated according to research, practice, originality and readability. Articles that receive top marks for one of these categories are then entered into our searchable Citation of Excellence Hall of Fame, which can be found on our website:
www.emeraldinsight.com/cgi-bin/emeraldce#halloffame.htm.

Each year, the top fifty articles from the Hall of Fame are hand picked for special mention. These articles have all been singled out as exceptional in some way and as standing out from the hundreds of other articles our reviewers read each year (over 15,000 articles in total are reviewed annually). More information about Citations of Excellence, including the complete list of winners, can be found at: www.emeraldinsight.com/cgi-bin/emeraldce.

Included with this letter is your Citation of Excellence certificate. You are also entitled to download the Citation of Excellence logo from our website and use it on other documents or personal homepages. Please feel free to contact me if you need further advice on this or have any other questions, such as how to link back to your online review.

Yours Sincerely,

Joe Bennett
